time set for the ceremony was 2:30 o'clock; at that hour not only was overy seat in the edifice occupied, but the side aisles were filled with people standing, and even the corridors were crowded. While the assemblage was filling the church, the organist, Miss Storer, played a number of pleasing selections. The enterance of the bradal party was announced by the opening notes of the "Lohengrin" welding march, and as the ushers slowly led the way up the broad center aisle, the boy choir, under the direction of Prof. J. M. Hammond, sang the words of that familiar composition. Their, young clear voices sounded sweetly as they sang:

Champion victorious, go thou be fore!
The ushers were Mr. Charles List and Dr. J. E. Belleville, and Mr. Harry Ott, a brother of the bride, and Mr. Bert Hazlett. Immediately behind these gentlemen walked the groom leaning on the arm of his best man, Mr. A. W.
Mayers, of Williamsburg, Ohio. They were followed in turn by the brides maids, Miss Nellie Hazlett, of Washington, Par-and Miss Jennie Baird, and Miss Florence Ott and Miss Ann Cummins; the bride followed, accompanied by Miss Laura Cooper.
The church deporations were confined to the pulpit platform, where paims and other potied follage plants in profusion were artistically arranged. Standing in front of this mass of green the responses were made to the questions propounded by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Cooke, pastor of
